Local Happenings

A. J. Deadmarsh was a visitor in Edmonton last week.

Practically the entire staff of the Merchants Bank branch in Provost gave Monitor the once over last week.

The three day wind recently experienced caused considerable delay to the farmers who were cutting grain.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Warner and family spent last week end at the home of Mr. Warners sister, Mrs. A. Baxter, at Pemu-kau.

W. G. MacKenzie has moved his office from the west side of Main Street, to the building at one time used by W. M. Gehrke opposite the post-office on Main Street.

With regret we report that Mrs. A. J. Deadmarsh has been very ill since her return from Moose Jaw. She is, however, slowly recovering.

Dr. and Mrs. Mason, who are intending to take up their residence here, were in town between trains on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Gould have taken up their residence at their farm, north of town. The house, formerly occupied by is now occupied by Mrs. H. Shannen, who is teaching the Primary room at the school here.

Mr. Hughie MacDonald paid a brief visit to his friends in town last week end. He has secured a position as mail-clerk on the Lacombe-Coronation Branch of the C. P. R.

If Its Fight, We Must Fight: Prepared For Possible Trouble in Dublin,
Reserve Military with full equipment are over the wall ready for any emergency that may arise as a result of the Sinn Fein troubles in Dublin

Several from Monitor visited the Consort Fair on the 13th. The displays in all classes were extremely good and covered a wide variety. The collection of Shells, stones and Ores was exceptionally good. We would suggest however, that at their next fair, a little more care be taken in providing for the needs of the visiting public. It was impossible to get a drink or any ice cream at the grounds during the afternoon of the second day, and several of the ball-players had to go without their supper as the door was locked to the dining room of the hotel. Taken all round, though, the Fair was a success.

Hanna Airplane Visits Monitor

Last week the citizens of Monitor were startled from their usual calm, by the arrival of an airplane which came from Hanna, via Consort, and alighted in the field just south of the track. We presume it was their intention to make the visit a passenger carrying one, but owing to their unheralded and unadvertised appearance, not many of our folks were enabled to avail themselves of the opportunity to view Monitor from the clouds. However Herb Crisp took his courage in both hands and one foot, and made the initial trip. He was followed by Bob Lay and Mrs. Tarr. Several others would have gone but — —. Incidentally we received through the courtesy of the aviators, a copy of the Consort Enterprise, hot from the press. We believe this is the first time a mail service has taken place between these points by plane. Right after supper, the aviators left for Veteran. We hope the next time they are coming, they will let us know, in order that we may make suitable arrangements for their reception.

The Misses Hargrove and Stack arrived in town on Saturday last from the west. Miss Hargrove, has undertaken to teach the Whitton School, and Miss Stack will instruct the youngsters at Stonelaw. We understand also, that the young ladies are Tennis enthusiasts. Heres hoping.

Miss Emily Birch, of the staff of the Provost News, paid us a brief visit last week.

Mr. Moth resumed his duties at the C. P. R. on Monday last.

Local Happenings

Mrs. Carroll and Tommy returned from their holidays last week.

Miss English who has been visiting the Misses Martin, has returned to her home.

There was no issues of the News last week owing to the fact that we were indulging in our usual centennial holiday.

Doc. Larder has his brother visiting with him. He is working for the time being on the farm of J. Aug. Hayes.

Messrs. Davidge, Hargrove and Warner spent a profitable weeks holiday stooking the crops in this vicinity.

Mr. W. Farquharson of Eye Hill, was a visitor in town on Sunday last.

Chinese Slave Girl Is Rescued

Loi Mui a young Chinese girl who was held a prisoner for six years in a building at 1115 Stockton St., San Francisco. She recently effected her escape by dropping a note from the window of her room written in Chinese and found by a young Chinaman and subsequently turned over to the police. Her case is being investigated.

England's Marshall Of The Air.

General Sir Hugh Trenchard, who received a baronetcy for his services as the head of the Air Service during the great war and who now bears the title of Marshal of the Air forces and chief of the Air Staff in the Ministry of the Air. He was one of the first soldiers of the British Army to take up flying and to force its possibilities in warfare.

Stand Up For the Law

Recent events in Canada, both east and west, point to the necessity of great care being exercised, not so much by the authorities, perhaps, as by the people in general to safeguard one of the Dominion's finest traditions and at the same time protect the liberties of the citizen.

Canada has long been recognized throughout the world, and especially in the great republic to the south, as a country where law was respected and obeyed, where even-handed justice was administered to high and low, rich and poor alike, and where sooner or later the long arm of the law would get the guilty. In the United States, where so many murderers escape just punishment for their crimes, where the law's ways are almost interminable, and where, as a result of a lack of public confidence in the machinery of justice, lynchings are not infrequent, the reputation borne by Canada was an invaluable asset. It is an asset Canada cannot afford to lose, nor allow to be lessened.

A few weeks ago, however, a group of men in southern Saskatchewan took the law into their own hands and drove a labor agitator out of the country, threatening him with tar and feathers if he returned. On August 16, at Thorold, Ont., a mob stormed the town jail and finally set fire to it in an effort to take a prisoner from the officers of the law in order that they might execute him themselves, although he had not yet been found guilty of the crime of which he was accused. Fortunately, common sense and an appeal to British law play was effective in restraining the passions of the mob before it took the irrevocable step.

People, however, must be on their guard against such exhibitions and acts, if Canada is not to suffer in the eyes of the world, and the rights and liberties of its own people placed in jeopardy. Even in the earlier days when the west was "wild and woolly," and at the time of the great stampede to the Yukon, law was maintained and respected so effectively as to call forth the admiration of all countries. It is as necessary as ever that it should continue to be maintained. The world has passed through a great war when human life seemed to be the cheapest commodity in the world, and as a result many people do not look upon the take of human life as seriously as of old. But the old conception of the sacredness of human life must be fully re-established, and it is the duty of all citizens to assist by precept and practice to such restoration, and to oppose by all legitimate means in their power anything that tends to weaken and destroy confidence in the law.

The maintenance of law and order is the foundation of any organized state. Without respect for law, and lacking order, society could not exist, all property would soon cease to have any value, family ties would be dissolved, and human life ultimately be the plaything of the murderer and assassin.

Do away with law, and respect for it—which, of course, would follow the non-enforcement of law—and disorder would reign supreme. All mankind would revert to only one law—the law of the jungle, the law that might is right and must and will prevail.

Every man and woman realizes in their innermost beings that this is true, and that the whole organism on which human society rests has been evolved and erected because of general acceptance of the absolute necessity of a state of law and order. Mob rule is evil and vicious in the highest degree.

The maintenance of order rests absolutely in respect for and the upholding of the law. And the upholding of the law—which, after all, is but the concrete expression of the will of the majority of the people—is dependent upon respect for and unqualified support of those who are appointed to administer the laws which the people through their elected representatives have enacted for the common good and protection of all.

There can be only one outcome resulting from a loss of public confidence in the administration of justice in this country. And through the acts of the people taking the law into their own hands—law will be superseded by license; anarchy will replace order. Life and property will become playthings of the passions of men, and all those precious liberties and that freedom, to defend and maintain which our heroic soldiers died and suffered in their hundreds of thousands, and which alone can be maintained under a system of law and order, will be destroyed, and a state of disorder and chaos prevail.

Every person who joins in or cheers on a mob is undermining the very foundations of that law which is his own safeguard and the protection of his family and his property.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heats throw the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera, infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During that summer mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, soothe the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To Make a Pound of Honey

It is Clear That the 'Busy Bee' is Well Named

The Manchester Guardian quotes experts as saying that this is to be a good season for honey, and it adds that many people will welcome the news, though few realize the enormous effort a single pound of honey necessitates on the part of the bees. "In a pound jar," The Guardian explains, "there is the concentrated essence of over 60,000 flowers. It is calculated that to make a pound of clover honey the bees must take nectar from 62,000 blossoms and make 2,750,000 visits in the process. Often the journey from the hive to the flowers and back runs to two miles, so that the making of a pound of honey entails journeys aggregating over 5,000,000 miles. When it is remembered that a single colony of bees will produce from sixty to eighty pounds of honey in a season it is clear that the 'busy bee' is well named."

There's no waste to Grape-Nuts and it saves sugar, for it contains its own sweetening

No cooking is necessary and the likable flavor of this wheat and malted barley food is equaled only by its economy.

Grocers everywhere sell Grape-Nuts.

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Food scientists claim that the leavener is largely responsible for the flavor, texture and wholesomeness of your home baking. That on no other one ingredient does so much depend. It is important, therefore, to use a baking powder that you know possesses the necessary leavening qualities.

Black Bass for Lake Nipigon

The south end of Orient Bay on Lake Nipigon, and Keweenaw Lake were recently stocked with three hundred parent black bass. The fish were shipped from Toronto in tanks and deposited in the water by Neil McDougall, sportsman's representative of the Canadian National railway.

150 Year Old Grape-Vine

At Hampton Court, London, in one of the greenhouses is the famous vine planted in 1768 by "Capability" Brown, a famous landscape gardener of the eighteenth century. The vine is the Black Hamburg variety. The fruit in recent years has been good, but this season the number and quality of the bunches is rather above the average. The girth of the stem is five feet at the base. Several years ago twelve bunches of fruit from the wonderful vine were shown at a Royal Horticultural Society exhibition and the combined weight was 42 pounds.

Refloat Vendictive

The British light cruiser Vendictive which was sunk in the entrance of Ostend harbor on May 11, 1918, and which has blocked that port since that time, has been refloated and the port is again open for traffic. The sinking of the Vendictive was one of the most thrilling events of the last year of the war.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, irregular heart beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes:—"I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

Price 50c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Tell me," said the solicitor for the prosecution, "were you present at the inception of the altercation?"

"No, sir," replied the witness, "but I was there when the fight started."—London Tit-bits.

U. S. History at Oxford

From Oxford comes the interesting note that Viscount Rothermere has offered to Oxford University through the chancellor, on certain specified conditions, a sum of $100,000 for the establishment and endowment of a professorship of the history of the United States of America, to be styled the Harold Vyvyan Harmsworth Professorship of American History in memory of his son, Capt. the Hon. Supplies Scarce in Far North Arrivals from the head of Pelly River, 200 miles north of Fort Selkirk, bear word that the stores in that district have been out of supplies for months. They have not had a grain of sugar since Christmas. The steamer Thistle, however, has just arrived at the head of navigation with ample supplies for the coming winter.

They Soothe Excited Nerves. — Nervous affections are usually attributable to defective digestion, as the stomach dominates the nerve centres. A course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will still all disturbances of this character, and by restoring the stomach to normal action, relieve the nerves from irritation. There is no sedative like them and in the correction of irregularities of the digestive processes, no preparation has done so effective work, as can be testified to by thousands.

As they approached Declute's home which was a house of logs close to the shore of Rond Eau, a couple of wire-haired mongrel curs came yelping out to meet them.

"There's David and Goliath," said Ander. "Rachel named them dogs. She's great on Bible names is Rachel—too damned great," he finished in a lower key.

Gloss opened the door and stepped inside. Mrs. Declute turned slowly from the table and a smile spread across her flour-streaked face.

"Oh, you dear," she said, pounding forward and jangling a resounding snuff on the girl's rhy check. "You little dear, to come just now of all times, when I most wanted to see you."

Mrs. Declute smiled again and a bit of powder fell from her face. It was a big, matronly face, with big, heartless eyes, written clean across it, and real kindness beaming in its large black eyes. She was a big woman, "nigh two hundred and thirty," as Ander put it.

"Where are babies?" asked Gloss, sitting down on a stool and gazing about the small room.

"Sleepin' like angels, th' trouble-some little good-for-nothin's," smiled the woman fondly. "Moses is just that trouble-some I think sometimes I'll have to tie him up. Only this mornin' he upset the cradle and spilt little Martha out on the floor ker-bump. Give any life if I wasn't so provoked I could have heeled him if he hadn't been just gettin' over the jaundice."

"Ander tell me that you are thinkin' of havin' a loggie," said Gloss. "Is there anythin' I could do to help you, Mrs. Declute?"

"Just what I was wantin' to see you about," cried the beaming woman, sitting down and wiping her face with her apron. "Thought first as I'd run across to Fother-side and ask widdier Ross to come over. Then I thought about her havin' that teacher boardin' there, and I didn't want to put her out any. Fine cook is the widdier, but somehow I can't think as anybody can cook meals and serve 'em up quite like you, Glossie. I'm fixin' up some dried-apple pies. Sent over to Bridgetown this mornin' by Jim Peeler for the dried-apples. I guess he'll be along soon."

"He's comin' right now," called Declute from the door. "I'll go along and give him a hand, I guess. He's got some tobacco for me—leastways I hope he has; I sent for some."

"Ain't that a man for you?" winked Mrs. Declute. "Ain't that a man, though? Glossie, my dear, don't you ever marry a man; don't you ever do it. You'll be sorry all the days of your life if you do. Even I am almost sorry sometimes, and Anders an exception of a man. There ain't no other like him. And sakes alive, he's had enough, dear knowes."

Ander and a short, heavy set man, entered, and the latter had a number of parcels on the table. He had a jolly round red face with cross's feet about the corners of brown eyes, stamped there by much smiling. It was said of Jim Peeler that he had never been known to lose his temper. He stood a short while in the corner and sat down near the table. Mrs. Declute arose and brought a steaming tea-pot from the hearth, also a plate of bread and cold meat.

After disposing of a goodly portion of the victuals, he turned to Jim and turned to them with the question:

"How's the sick?"

"No better," answered Gloss, her face growing grave.

"Dear me, how thinkless I am!" exclaimed Mrs. Declute. "I know'd there was somethin' I wanted to ask you, Gloss. That's it. How's th' dear little woman?"

Ander was cutting off a piece of black chewing-tobacco from a slab.

"Why don't you tell old Betsy 'bout her?" he asked.

"Shet up Ander," flashed his wife. "Be you a Christian, or be you a heathen as believe in witches?"

"There, there," laughed Peter soothingly. "I guess Ander is a good Christian. But I was talkin' to a real Christian today; a real pious, right-down good man."

"Smythe?" questioned Declute, the piece of tobacco poised half-way to its expectant goal.

"The same," answered Peeler. "And by the way, I met that man Watson as I was comin' home. He must have been over here, eh?"

"He was here this mornin'," said Gloss. "He was tryin' to—buy your place."

"Oh, was he?"

Peter's face lost its smile and his bushy eyebrows met in a scowl.

"How about you, Ander?"

Declute squirmed.

"Oh, I ain't thinkin' much about it, Jim. I ain't worryin' none."

His wife gazed at him contemptuously.

"You ain't brains enough to worry about anythin'," she exclaimed. "Was that Watson ridin' alone, Jim?"

"Well, no, he wasn't. That teacher chap was with him. He was ridin' the hay belongin' to Hallibut's engineer."

Gloss looked up, her eyes wide.

"Then they were together?" she asked.

"Yes," replied Peeler. "I suppose the teacher was seen him through part of the bush. I was talkin' to Blake, the sawyer, over at the mill a while ago, and he tells me Colonel Hallibut has hired Smythe and Watson to help get our timberland."

"Where'bouts on the trail did you meet 'em?" asked Declute.

"Why, they had only got nicely started I guess. It was more than two or three miles out at most."

"Where has Watson been all day, I wonder?" cried Gloss. "He was at our place shortly after sun-up."

From the next room came a commotion, and three round-eyed youngsters, between the ages of three and six, protruded their heads from beneath the buckskin door-curtain.

"Get back in thar, Moses and Zacheous," commanded the mother; "You ain't had half enough sleep yet."

"Oh, let me hug them, Mrs. Declute," pleaded Gloss.

She ran across and gathered the babies up, all together, in her arms. They twined their chubby arms about her neck and rubbed their sleepy eyes against her face. They were sweet-wholesome youngsters, and the girl loved them. She kissed them all, three times around, then set them down.

"Guass we'd better be goin', Ander," she said, "that is, if you have to come. But I'm not the least timid about goin' alone."

"Course he'll go," declared Mrs. Declute, "and you too, Jim Peeler, 'cause I've got to get on with them pies. Tell Libby the bee's next Thursday, and I'll want her to help with the table. Much 'bliged for your kindness, Jim. Good-night Glossie."

CHAPTER IX.

"Guess I'll step through the oak ridge here and look in on Bill Paisley for a minute or so," said Jim Peeler, as the three found the path leading to the creek.

"He's singin' his old pet song," smiled Gloss. "Hark, can't you hear him?"

Upon the tree-fringe of Rond Eau a red disk of a sun was dripping gold and amethyst glory and all the wild-wood was full of life and harmony. From the thickets the hardest of the song-birds were hiding good-by to the wood. It was their last night in the old nesting-place.

Mingled with the symphony came Paisley's voice, trilling happily:

"Massar's gone away, de darkey say,

"Ho, ho!"

Mus' be now dat de kingdom's comin'.

I' de year ob jubileo."

"He's a happy beggar," chuckled Declute. "He's a happy beggar, is Bill, and the biggest-hearted, softest-hearted baby of a man as ever lived."

"God built some big things," said Peeler; "that," waving toward the mellow glory above; "this," looking about him; "an' Bill. Yes, he built Bill, and nobody has ever spoiled His work."

He Ought to Know Better

There is no use trying to joke with a woman. The other day Jones heard a pretty good conundrum and decided to try it on his wife.

"Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her when he went home.

"No," she replied promptly. "I know you are, but I don't know why you are."

"I had been suffering with a pimply face for three years. My face was full of pimples and they were hard and awfully sore. They festered and dried up, and were scaly, and disfigured my face. They caused me to lose a lot of sleep, and were awfully itchy, making me scratch and irritate my face."

"I started to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Clifford Yeomans, East Cheshelook, N. S.

Piano 200 Years Old

The oldest piano in existence was made by Cristofori in the year 1720, and is still in good condition. But its sound is more like that of a harp than a piano, for its wires, instead of being struck by hammers, are plucked by points of quill or of hard teather.

CHAPTER VIII.

Gloss, standing in the kitchen doorway, gazed outward across the bronzed trees to the drab-colored sky resting above Rond Eau.

There was a smile on her lips and her eyes were alive with the light of genuine girlish happiness. She did not know why she should be so glad; but today she felt like singing; like racing out into the hardwoods and tramping the long leaf-carpeted aisles—he wanted to be out in the open. A flock of wild geese wedged their way between two tiny strips of blue sky and were lost in a heavy snow-cloud above the Point. The girl clapped her hands joyfully and, springing backward like a young gazelle, she snatched her cap from a peg and tiptoed into the inner room.

Granny McTavish looked up from her knitting, a smile on her wrinkled face.

"Lass," she said softly, "but ye are gettin' mair like your dear mither every day. And she was bonnie, aye, she was bonnie, lassie."

The girl sank on her knees and took the old hands in hers.

"Am I like my mother, Granny," she asked eagerly. "Very like her?"

"Aye, dearie, ye have her eyes and ye have her beautiful hair; ye have her face and ye have her smile. Ye tak me awa back to the time I first saw your mither, Gloss. Ye will na gainin' oot o' th' snaw, pet," noting with concern that Gloss had on her cap and coat. "I ne'er lak ta see ye ramblin' about i' th' woods. After th' snaw falls on account o' th' wolves, cheeld."

"And she was beautiful, and I am like her," said the girl softly. "Oh, Granny, I'm beginning to miss my mother!"

"Cheeld, cheeld," said the old woman, drawing the girl over to her bosom. "It's ever the way. The mither is missed always, but the cheeld canna miss her lak the woman. And ye are growin' into a woman, 'Gloss; ye are growin' into a woman fast, lassie."

She picked up her knitting and rocked to and fro, crooning to herself. The girl arose and, bending, kissed her softly on the smooth white hair. Then she crossed the kitchen and peeped into the larger of the bedrooms.

"She's sleepin', lass; best slip awa' and no disturb her," whispered Granny. "She'll no last much langer, dearie; she'll no last much langer, I fear."

A look of sorrow came into the girl's eyes and her mouth trembled.

"God won't let her die, Granny," she said chokingly; "He knows we need her so much."

"Maybe He needs her th' mair, lassie."

"No, no, He can't. And Granny, she wouldn't—she wouldn't be happy away from Boy and—and us."

"Ye dinna ken, lassie; ye dinna ken; it's a braw world and your mither has been lookin' for her counin' full lang, I ha' noo doot. They were greet friends. They lood an anither reet weel."

"But mother would not mind waitin' some langer, Granny. I know she would rather let auntie live a while longer for our sakes. She has got used to waitin'."

"Lass, you mus'n a cry," said the old woman gently. "If she gangs awa' it will be God's good pleasure. If she bides 'twill be His Mercy. We will hope an pray for the best, Glossie."

When Gloss sought the wood a white, sweet-scented mist was rising from the leafy carpet where a thin veil of snow had rested. The low calls of the feathered denizens of the Wild sounded mellow and indistinct from the softwood swales, for the sky was changing to the slate-blue of even-ide. Down in the stumpy potato-patch Boy and Big McTavish were busily engaged in turning the sleggy tubers out of the black soil.

Gloss skirted the patch, keeping a thicket between her and the workers, and passed on southward until she reached a wide ridge of giant beech trees, whose long arms were fruited with the toothsome nuts which the first frost of autumn would send in a shower to the earth.

Black and red squirrels were busy among the trees, garnering their winter's food. They worked noisily, chattering and scolding. They were a busy little body of workers, and they could not afford to pay much attention to the wood-nymph whom they had become accustomed to see in their kingdom. The old-time restfulness and happiness had stolen back to the heart of the girl. Her great eyes were alive with light and joy, and she passed on, humming a merry tune to herself, drinking in the golden beauty, the songs, and the scent of nature.

Beyond a tangled clump of trees, Gloss came unexpectedly upon another creature of the wood. A young doe was browsing among the tender shoots of the brush-pile, and at the girl's soft footsteps it lifted its shapely head and stood quivering, its nostrils dilated and its sides heaving. And so the two animals of the Wild gazed at each other with a deep and growing wonder.

Nature had built those two after the same fashion. Both were slender and graceful; both were alert and watchful; both possessed long-lashed eyes; both were wild, free and beautiful.

The doe stood with her slender muzzle lifted, her sensitive lips tremble, her humid eyes fastened upon the girl of the forest, who, instinctively, she felt, would do her no harm.

For a moment the two creatures stood gazing at each other. The doe reached forward timidly and plucked another mouthful of the juicy twigs, then with a sudden start leaped into the thicket on the right.

Gloss turned quickly. A little man with a small face fringed with whiskers and light blue eyes, blinking from beneath a conical cap, stepped out from behind a tree and lowered the hammer of his long rifle.

"Jinks and ironwood!" he ejaculated; "you stud right in my way, Glossie. I'd o' had that doe sure pop if I hadn't been a trifle timid about hittin' you."

"Did—did you want to shoot that pretty little thing, Ander?" asked Gloss, her cheeks aflame.

"Wall, I don't know," laughed the little man, coming forward. "I tell you that war as fine a doe as I've seen this season, girl."

"Poor thing," sighed Gloss; then hotly, "I'm glad she got away; I'm glad she got away."

"Somebody else'll get her," said the man. "She's pretty tame and she'll get shot sooner or later."

The girl stood looking away through the wood.

"Ander," she said, "I know you're a pretty good man. I want you to promise me that you won't shoot things—things like her. It's terrible. Why, they are so young, they don't know any danger. You'll give them all a chance, won't you?"

Declute looked puzzled, scratched his head and grinned; then he looked down.

"Why, I don't mind promisein' that he stammered. "I ain't carin' much to shoot—any deer without givin' it something of a chance. And I will say that to shoot 'em without goes somethin' again' my grain. All right, Gloss, old Ander'll promise not to shoot that doe or any other like it. Dang me, but you and her seemed a lot, a-lot alike to me somehow. I reckon I'm good enough of a shot to have got by you girl; but somethin' kept my rifle down. I see you two lookin' at each other—her eyes, your eyes—wall, I can't say what makes me think you two are alike, but you are. No, sirc, Ander won't shoot any more does—at least, not this season. Now, Gloss, I want you to come along over to my place and see my missus. She's bound to have

Land Cheaper in Canada

Being Rapidly Taken Up By United States Settlers

Government land in Canada, especially in the Peace River district, will soon be taken up by emigrants from the United States, according to Col. Ellsworth Walters, of Skeedee, Oklahoma. Col. Walters is the official government land auctioneer for the Osage Indians in Oklahoma, and has in his time auctioned off 27,000,000 acres of land. "Land throughout the midwestern states has gone up enormously in price," he said. "The other day I auctioned off land in South Dakota at $25 an acre. There is plenty of cheaper land in Canada, which is just as good for agriculture, and owing to this fact there is bound to be a great influx of settlers from the south to the uncultivated lands in Western Canada."

POLISH TROOPS ARE IMPROVING THEIR POSITION

RED ARMY IS DRIVEN BACK

Bolsheviks Forced to Retire Along A Wide Section of Front

Paris.—Warsaw now seems to be saved from the Bolsheviks. President Pilsudski's armies no longer are obliged to fight a defensive battle and are now on the offensive, was the news reaching here from the Polish sources, and the Reds are pausing, before attempting to develop their successes. The offensive on the left wing is being personally led by the French generals, Henry and Bilyotte, and already has yielded several hundred prisoners. Once more this will put the Poles in possession of the fork between the Narew and Bug Rivers, while the forces advancing towards Mlawa, which have reached Tschanoff, 12 miles to the south of Mlawa, will force Bolsheviks marching towards Plock and Thorn to beat a hasty retreat and consequently reopen the road-line to Danzig.

But the manoeuvre on the right wing, along the line of Garvolin and Paratchoff, between the Vistula and the Bug, is the more interesting of the two from the strategic standpoint, because it threatens communications with Red forces.

These troops have just arrived from the Brody region, and have made rapid headway and have driven the Reds back all along the line towards Brest-Litovsk for distances varying from 25 to 50 miles.

Moscow.—Soviet Russia's position on both the Polish and South Russian fronts was pronounced "generally satisfactory" by Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister in an address here. The speech was delivered at a meeting of the Moscow soviet.

Discussing the military situation, Trotsky declared that on the front against White Poland, our Red troops have fulfilled the fundamental part of their task. The holding up of our advanced troops before Warsaw in no way alters the situation, as the Polish front is now divided into parts—military and diplomatic—and possesses two centres, one in Warsaw and the other in Minsk.

"The peace negotiations at Minsk are of exceptional importance," continued the war minister, "because they are developing on the unstable foundations of a stormy movement among the workers. Great Britain, also, is passing through an unheard of display of excitement among her workers in connection with the peace negotiations between Russia and Poland."

"On General Wrangel's front," he added, "We are opening the gate wide to our enemies, but we shall assault them in the flank and rear. The fate of the revolution will be decided on the Polish front. This is why we have continued our forces in the west and are only leaving posts on the southern front in connection with the campaign, just to keep Wrangel busy."

Shipping Lines Want Increase

Involving Approximately Sixty U. S. Steamship Lines

Washington.—Great Lakes, Coastwise and gulf carriers, urged the United States shipping board to grant applications involving approximately sixty steamship lines for rate increases in connection with the advances already allowed the railroads by the inter-state board of commerce. A majority of the lines are now operating at deficits which threaten their existence, it is said. H. E. Mangum was told by witnesses. Representatives of shippers are now being heard. Owing to the short time until increased railway rates become effective, efforts are being made to expedite the hearings.

Munitions Are Barred

Brussels.—The Belgian state railwaymen's syndicate has decided to prevent the transportation to or through Belgium of troops or munitions intended for Poland. This decision follows similar action by Antwerp dockers.

Says Trainmen Not Exploiting Public

Explain That Five-Hour Day Is Not Equivalent to Eight-hour Day of Industry

Toronto.—Declaring that certain evidence regarding the "five-hour day," as given before the Dominion railway commission, in connection with the application for increases in freight rates has been misunderstood, and used to make it appear that the strongly organized trainmen, by their demands, have been exploiting the public, and are reported for the further rate increase, a statement has been issued by the executive of the unions.

The principal contradictions are as follows:

1. The basic five-hour day for passenger engineers is not equivalent in any way to the eight-hour day in industry. It is a minimum guaranteed day measurement for special occasions, very seldom used. The general rule is that engineers in the passenger service are paid on a mileage basis. Their hours of work are most irregular, often extending from twelve to eighteen hours on a single trip.

2. There is not a great deal of overtime in the wages of trainmen, engineers operating passenger trains do not get time and a half for overtime. The only men who receive this are the trainmen and engineers on the slow freight service, which is not the general rule.

3. It is true that time as well as mileage is one of the factors that determine pay, and that delay is sometimes a real factor but this is only on special occasions, and it is untrue to say that there is any inducement for engineers to run slowly or to strive for delays. The inducement is all for operating on time.

4. The present salaries for engineers run from $200 to $250 a month. Their hours are usually very long and irregular, and they are the poorest paid of the highly skilled mechanics, according to the men engaged in that kind of work.

Manifesto to Workers

Says Danger of War With Russia Is Not Over

London.—The "Council of action" of the British labor party, after a long discussion, issued a new manifesto to the workers of Great Britain declaring that the danger of war was not over.

"This," the manifesto says, "is not the time to be deceived by seeming fair words. Why does not the Premier announce the terms on which England will make peace with Russia? Why is the position with regard to the adventures of General Wrangel submerged? The manifesto demands a full peace, together with a resumption of trading with Russia and exhorts the workers not to relax their efforts in this direction."

"The council has not yet received any word from William Adamson and Harry Gosling, representatives of the council of action," who went to Paris to confer with the labor federation and the executives of the United Socialist party.

For Strike Leaders' Release

Deputation Headed by F. J. Dixon Plead Cause of Prisoners At Ottawa

Ottawa.—Pleading the cause of the imprisoned Winnipeg strike leaders, a deputation, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Laborites in the Manitoba Legislature, waited upon two members of the government. It is understood their plea was to the effect that the recent election in Winnipeg demonstrated the people's confidence in the imprisoned men, and served to show that the bulk of public opinion is behind a general strike, also that few people believe the imprisoned men had any seditious intentions.

Friends of the imprisoned men here believe that there is every prospect of an early release for the men.

CLAIM RAILWAY IS FACING A HEAVY DEFICIT

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION

Counsel Suggests There is Less Need For Increased Rates

In The West

Ottawa.—An interesting development in the hearing before the rail-commission of the application of the Canadian railways for increased freight rates and passenger rates occurred when H. J. Symington, counsel for the government of Manitoba, threw out the suggestion that, in view of the fact that operating expenses are lower and earnings higher on western C.P.R. lines, the same necessity does not exist for an increase of rates in the west.

Mr. Symington had been examining W. J. Moule, assistant controller of the C.P.R. at length on the cost of operating in the east and west it being shown that during the past four years net operating expenses in the west are lower than in the east, and the net earnings per train mile are higher, those for 1919 being approximately eighty per cent higher.

"Would you say in view of the figures," asked Mr. Symington, "that freight rates increases should be the same in the west as in the east, if the increase is to be upon the basis of paying money for services rendered?"

Mr. Moule, in reply, said that the operating expenses in the east are largely incurred for the benefit of the west. These include large expenses for port terminals, etc. For this reason, he said, operating ratios are not a proper indication of the earnings on eastern and western lines. Expenses in the east of this kind were not, he said, spread over the entire system.

"Is not more traffic originated in the west for the long haul?" asked Mr. Symington.

Mr. Moule: "I suppose it is."

"Even so," interposed Chief Commissioner Carvell, "does it not have to be transported over one thousand miles of waste country?"

Mr. Symington remarked that it was strange that the Lake Superior C.P.R. division was one of the best paying divisions of the C.P.R.

Commissioner McLean compared the Superior division to a bridge which must be maintained, and Mr. Carvell said that without it, production in the west would not amount to much.

Mr. Symington remarked that the west originates most of the traffic and to this Chairman Carvell agreed, "If it were not for the west," he observed, "that section of the railway would not be there at all." He added that it would take a powerful argument to convince him that it was a paying piece of railway.

Earlier in Mr. Symington's examination of Mr. Moule, he emphasized the movement of wheat from the west, contrasting the ratio with other commodities.

Mr. Moule said that while it was not necessarily so, the cost would come down as the density of traffic increased till the point was reached where the line would become choked.

"It costs less to move grain on the prairies than any other traffic," asked Mr. Symington.

"Yes, but we have a very low rate on it," Mr. Moule replied.

The fight throughout the entire sitting was centred on the statement submitted last week by the C.P.R. and designed to show the need of that company for higher rates if it is to be prevented from having a deficit during the year which will end June, 1921. In that statement it was shown that the C.P.R. faces a possible deficit of over thirty-seven millions of dollars if the existing scale of rates is continued in force.

Finishes Trip to Dawson

Dawson.—H. Kindersley, son of Sir Robert Kindersley, governor of the Hudson's Bay company, has arrived here accompanied by T. P. O'Kelly. They left Edmonton early in the summer, travelled the full length of the Mackenzie river to Fort McPherson and by way of the Porcupine river to this city. They are leaving by steamer for Vancouver by way of White Horse and Skagway.

Gruesome Discovery In Hudson River

Headless and Limbless Body of A Woman Is Found By Longshoreman

New York.—The torso of an unidentified woman with head, arms and legs chopped off has been found in the Hudson River.

Clinging to the skin were shreds of clothing of fine material and minute pieces of wrapping paper. This indicated, according to the police, that before being cast into the river, the torso had been wrapped in heavy underwear or a blanket and this in turn covered with heavy wrapping paper and bound with strong cord. The police explained the operation that the package probably had been weighted down, but that water had rotted the wrappings and the torso allowed to come to the surface.

Medical officers claimed that it had been in the water about two weeks.

The police believe that the woman was about 25 or 30 and weighed about 130 pounds.

Vancouver Airman Killed

Loses Life in An Accident Over English Bay

Vancouver, B. C.—In the sight of his wife and many hundreds of people on the beach, Bert Brenton, purchasing agent for the Union Steamship company of British Columbia, either jumped or fell to his death in the water of English Bay when the seaplane he was piloting became unmanageable and crashed into the sea.

Before the actual fall an explosion was heard and smoke was noticed near the engine and the seaplane turned over seven times in its descent. The machine was brought to shore by a tug and a search is being made for the pilot's body.

Brenton was about a mile out at sea when the accident occurred. He had made a flight over the city previously. He was an experienced aviator, having seen active service overseas, being a captain in the Royal Air Force. He is the last of three brothers, the other two having been killed overseas.

E. H. Brasley, general manager of the same company, was killed in an airplane accident at Minoru park a few months ago.

FRANCE AND U.S. AGREE ON RUSSIAN POLICY

CASE OF GENERAL WRANGEL

Both Countries Agree in Condemnation of the Bolsheviks

Washington.—The United States and French governments are in entire agreement in regard to the future of both Poland and Russia, secretary of state Colby said, in interpreting France's recent construction on the Wrangel case.

France's declaration "of its opposition to the dismemberment of Russia is most gratifying," Mr. Colby said, and added, that "the response is a notable declaration from every viewpoint and brings to the position taken by the United States a striking emphasis and powerful support."

The secretary of state also said that regarding recognition of Gen. Wrangel, "there was a divergence between the two governments, but the United States was disposed to regard the declared agreement of France with the principles of the United States as of more significance than any divergence of policy involved in the specific action of France in this single respect." He declares that France is of the same opinion as the United States "concerning the present rulers of Russia, and points to condemnation of the Bolsheviks in language almost identical with that employed in the United States note to Italy."

Waste is a Crime These Days

SAVE
Those High-priced MACHINES

An unprotected binder has only a working life of 180 days—and so it is with all other machines. An actual depreciation of 15 to 25% when left to the weather. When housed properly the depreciation is reduced to the ordinary wear and tear caused by the work—3 to 10%.

An implement shed that contains housing for your machines, a tool room and a garage would be the ideal compact arrangement for the protection and upkeep of your machines. This is a precaution that pays handsome reward to the farmer.

Telephone "Service" ? Needs Fixing

It is becoming more and more prominent to the citizens of Monitor, chiefly the business men, that some change is necessary in the management or the staff of the Alberta Telephone Company. It is hardly the fault of the local agent if other agents or operators along the line are unable to cope with the situation. On three occasions we have tried to get either Calgary or Edmonton, and in each instance we are told that "there must be a new operator." What we would like to know is why the same hill these operators are not tested and proved efficient, before they are given a position of such importance. The telephone is one of the most vital institutions the public owns, and the greatest care should be taken as to the appointment of its officials. Anyhow, if it is the fault of the present operators along the line, we hope the old operators darn soon gets back on the job.
